

TECHNOLOGY vs COMMUNITY

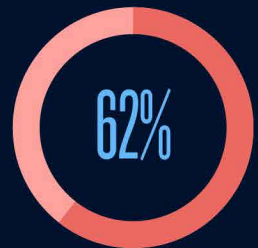

Does high-tech know-how leave you feeling disconnected with your community? Based on what tech-immersed consumers had to say, there seems to be a growing correlation between tech-immersion and the desire for closer community ties. All the more reason to call your REALTOR® for help finding your next home and a greater sense of community feel they should be doing more to help their local community don't feel as close to people in their local community as they would like wish there was more their local community could do to help them

Internet users rank local community activities last in a list of activities they feel most informed about because digital technologies are more dominant.

SOURCE:

- The Futures Company, brought to you by C.A.R.'s Center for California Real Estate
- Pew Research

CALIFORNIA
ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®